

Stephen Tony has run retreats and given talks regarding faith to students, young adults, and adult audiences.

His talk “Indifference” reflects on how often the trivial distracts us from what truly matters and how to reopen our hearts to the great beauty and adventure of our faith.

Deacon Allen Tatara is a dynamic and fiery speaker, preacher, storyteller, musician and evangelizer who ministers to groups of all ages.

His talk “When is Enough Enough?” examines the increasing stress levels of young adults and how to change habits in order to keep stress to a minimum by putting God first and finding calm amid the chaos of life.

Fr Dominic Clemente is a priest for the Archdiocese of Chicago and a brewer (and lover) of beer who was interviewed in a TIME magazine article on Millennial Priests.

His talk “And God Saw That it was Good: Beer!” discusses the history and tradition of beer brewing as well as what the church teaches about alcohol consumption.
